- Article 1: In order to set forth general education policies and to promote matters related to students' general education, the university hereby institutes the General Education Committee (referred to as the Committee below). It does so according to Article 5 of the university's Organizational Regulations. In addition, it has established the College of General Studies to take charge of the propagation of general education affairs.
- Article 2: The Committee is chaired by the university president or an appointed vice president. The dean of Academic Affairs, the dean of Student Affairs, all deans of academic colleges, and the dean of the College of General Studies are considered ex-officio committee members. An additional 4-6 members are selected by recommendation of these ex-officio members, then confirmed and certified by the university president. Their term is one year with the possibility to be reappointed.
- Article 3: The Committee responsibilities are as follows:
1. Setting general education policies.
 2. Setting general education guidelines.
 3. Arranging general education courses with qualified teachers as well as related matters.
 4. Managing any other important business related to general education.
- Article 4: The Committee meets once an academic year in principle; the committee chair calls the meeting. For general motions more than half of the committee members must be in attendance. In order to convene a meeting for major motions more than two-thirds of the members are required to be in attendance. A majority consensus among members in attendance is required to pass any resolutions. Ad hoc meetings may be called when necessary.
- Article 5: Relevant personnel may be invited to attend Committee meetings in a non-voting role.
- Article 6: The articles of association become effective after being approved by the university council and submitted to the president for ratification. The same applies to amendments.
